Applicable Oregon Statewide Planning Goals and associated statutes and rules, especially those dealing with natural resources and farm/forest land, must be taken into consideration in writing the West-side Energy Corridor Programmatic EIS. The goals were established to protect the landscape and provide orderly ways of planning for new development. Local governments work to meet the goals through local land-use plans and ordinances. The State of Oregon Department of Land Conservation and Development makes sure that those goals are met. If a corridor is designated it should be consistent with the goals.
